Description

A matched set of six charming antique oak dining chairs. The chairs feature camelback-shaped backrests with decorative fret-cut central splats. One chair is inscribed "1839" to the top rail. They have solid seats and are supported by square-cut legs with straight stretcher supports for added strength. A good sound and solid set of chairs. Item Reference: M-6403 Dimensions: Height - 98cm / Width - 50cm / Depth - 47cm / Seat Height - 45.5cm . CONDITION REPORT: In good antique condition with some signs of age. The chairs show surface wear, including age-related marks and scratches throughout. They have slightly different fret-cut designs and stretcher supports, as shown in the photos, though the variations are subtle. There is fading and some splitting to the seats, along with marks and dents to the backrests. Evidence of historic woodworm is present. Please note slight variations in size between the chairs, though they remain close in overall dimensions. A solid and sound set.
