Description

This is a pair of late Victorian, Bohemian, flash-cut and gilded lustre candlesticks dating from the second half of the 19th century, c1870. The lustres are in excellent condition for their age. This means, of course, that they show age related wear and tear consistent with some 150 years of use. The lustres are in the white over ruby colourway, the white outer layer of glass having been cut away to reveal the ruby glass beneath in a classic design. The lustres have everted, dentated upper rims measuring 15.8 cm (6.3 inches) in diameter. The tops of the lustre columns are decorated with ten Gothic panels. Each panel is outlined in gilt, as are the rims, with gilded scrollwork in between the panels. The long tapering stems are cut with five vertical panels outlined in gilt and ending in gilded knobs. The knobs sit above round feet cut through with six Gothic panels, the white glass on the tops of the feet embellished with gilded scrollwork. The feet measure 14.3 cm (5.7 inches) in diameter. The lustres are an impressive 30 cm (12 inches) in height. The droppers are of triangular spear form, and are probably the originals. There are the normal chips out...
