Description

A William IV mahogany elbow chair dating from the William IV period, circa 1830–1837. The chair features carved tulip-shaped legs and scrolled arm supports, with a beige upholstered seat cushion that complements the rich tone of the mahogany. The restrained carving and proportions are typical of furniture produced during this period. A versatile chair, suitable for use as a desk chair, occasional chair, or within a traditional interior. Condition The chair is in good condition and structurally sound.
