Description

Antique Edwardian 18ct Gold & Diamond Marquise Cluster Ring Circa 1900 A beautiful Edwardian marquise cluster ring, dating to circa 1900, featuring a platinum-topped setting with twelve old brilliant-cut diamonds arranged in a classic marquise form. The diamonds are pavé-set, creating a bright and elegant cluster typical of the period. The setting is mounted on an 18ct yellow gold shank, stamped "18ct" and otherwise unmarked, as commonly seen on antique pieces of this era. Diamonds: – Twelve old brilliant-cut diamonds – Estimated total diamond weight: approximately 1.20 carats (c. 0.10ct each) – Estimated clarity: VS-SI – Estimated colour: H-I Finger size: O A fine and elegant Edwardian ring, combining platinum and gold in the manner characteristic of turn-of-the-century jewellery, and well suited for both wear and collection.
