Description

These are a great pair of 19th century Pine dining benches. The length is ideal to sit 6 people per bench and the overall condition is very good. The pine has taken on a superb patina from years of use and is a deep honey colour which makes these very attractive. The overall design is very simple with a single plank seat and slatted back but there are some attractive details that give these a real quality. There are carved lines almost appearing like strung detail along the back rails, the uprights have chamfered edges which is a lovely touch and the colour difference in the seat where the legs join is very attractive. Solid condition. Height 90cm Length 310cm Depth 37cm Depth of seat 30cm Height of seat 45cm Price includes UK mainland delivery
