Description

This exquisite oval nickel box is adorned with polished moss agate panels on the lid and base - a natural semiprecious stone known for its rich green, forest-like inclusions that resemble miniature landscapes. Dating to the late Victorian period, this compact and elegant piece would have originally served as a pill box, patch box, or a snuff container for refined personal use – circa 1890. * Its tactile beauty, combined with the organic patterns of the moss agate, make it a highly decorative object as well as a collectible antique. Measurements: Height: 5/8" (approx. 1.5cm) Width: 2" (approx. 5cm) Depth: 1 5/8" (approx. 4cm) Total weight: 26g In good condition – Both moss agate panels are intact, with no chips or cracks. The natural veining and inclusions are well-preserved and show strong colour contrast. The lid opens and closes securely. Hinge functions smoothly without looseness.
