Description

A Really Splendid Pair of Silver-Plated Candelabra with each piece designed with a detachable upper section, allowing it to transform from a stately single candlestick into a 3-light candelabrum. With their symmetrical scrollwork arms, fluted stems, and stepped bases, these candelabra blend Georgian inspiration with early 20th-century craftsmanship. Made in England by the renowned Barker Ellis, they represent high-quality silverplate - a perfect blend of decorative flair and practical function – circa 1920. Convertible Design – Two Looks in One: - 3-Light or Single Candlestick: Use each piece with the branch arms for a dramatic three-candle display, or without for a sleek single-candle look. - Easy to Assemble: The upper section lifts off and slots securely into place. - Perfectly Balanced: Designed to remain stable and elegant in either form. Measurements: Height as Candelabras: 15" (approx. 38cm) Width as Candelabras: 14" (approx. 35.5cm) Height as Candlesticks: 10 1/4" (approx. 26cm) Total weight: 3424g In good condition – No major dents or structural issues. Silver Plate is clean and bright with minimal wear. Branches fit snugly and stand evenly.
