Description

A striking fusion of beauty and security, this Edwardian cut glass spirit decanter features a patented locking mechanism by Chapman's - an inventive touch that speaks to the values of both elegance and discretion in the early 1900s. The decanter's deeply cut, geometric design catches and reflects the light, while the multi-faceted crystal stopper adds a glittering crown to its stately silhouette. What sets this decanter apart is the silver-plated collar with integral lock and key mechanism, stamped "CHAPMAN'S PATENT." Once a fashionable safeguard against unauthorized access to prized spirits, it now stands as a rare and fascinating example of Edwardian ingenuity - circa 1905. * Once protected a gentleman's finest brandy from curious hands or overzealous servants! Measurements: Height: 9 1/4" (approx. 23.5cm) Width: 3 1/2" (approx. 9cm) Depth: 3 1/2" (approx. 9cm) Total weight: 1120g In good condition - Glass is clear and free from chips or cracks. Some age-appropriate patina and minor wear to the metalwork around the collar and locking hook. Stopper fits snugly and the lock mechanism is in full working order.
