Description

An attractive English Staffordshire pearlware jug of the late Georgian to early Victorian period, circa 1825–1840. Baluster in form with softly faceted sides, a scalloped rim and a shaped foot, it is decorated with a purple transfer-printed pastoral allegorical scene, enhanced with hand colouring, showing a standing female figure and a reclining semi-draped companion after French galant engravings. The rim is detailed with pink/copper lustre banding, complemented by hand-painted overglaze enamel borders in pink-lilac tones. The combination of transfer printing, hand colouring and selective lustre highlights is typical of Staffordshire production in the 1820s–1830s. Unmarked, as expected. A decorative and collectible jug with pleasing form, clear transferwork and well-preserved lustre accents. Measurements Height: 19 cm (7.5?) Width: 18.5 cm (7.3?) Depth: 15 cm (5.9?) Weight: 543 g Condition Very well preserved, with no cracks, restorations or breaks. A few small dark spots are visible, consistent with minor enamel changes or kiln impurities, and the jug remains in excellent antique condition overall.
