Description

An 18th Century marble bust of the goddess Juno. The Roman Queen of the Gods, wife of Jupiter and Goddess of women, marriage, protection and childbirth. Carved with softly modelled features, the bust reflects the classical tradition and enduring appeal of Greco-Roman sculpture. Later mounted on a polished black marble plinth, which provides a strong visual contrast and elevates the form. Later mounted on a polished black marble plinth. Hobo loves because: the perfect balance between being strong and powerful yet soft and feminine.
