Description

This Pair Of French Walnut Bedside Cabinets offer both elegance and practicality. Standing on finely turned legs that lead into their reeded top halves, topped off by ormolu mounts. The cupboard doors have a fielded panel to them which is a sign of quality, and open to reveal generous storage space. The free running oak lined drawers offer further storage. The rich warm hue of the walnut contrasts so well with the ormolu mounts and brass handles. You will notice that the cabinets are beautifully finished to the back, another indicator of superior quality. The lightly coloured marble tops with their darker grey veining, which have a few minor marks and abrasions to them as to be expected of furniture of this age, adds further practicality to this pair of cabinets. This pair of Bedside are presented in fully restored condition and would not only make a welcome addition to a bedroom but would also work rather well as lamp tables in a lounge environment.
