Description

A striking and highly decorative antique French three-fold screen, dating to the early 20th century, circa 1900–1910. Constructed in finely carved giltwood, the screen features beautifully hand-painted pastoral scenes to the upper panels, each depicting romantic landscape vignettes in the French taste. Below, the panels are upholstered in rich damask fabric, offering both visual contrast and practical screening. The giltwood frames retain their original decorative finish, with pleasing age-related patina throughout. Hinged to allow flexible positioning, this screen is ideal for use as a room divider, dressing screen, or dramatic decorative backdrop in both traditional and eclectic interiors. A rare and elegant interior piece with strong decorative presence. Dimensions: Height: 165 cm Width : 144 cm Depth : approx. 3 cm
