Description

For your consideration is this rather charming and relatively rare Art Deco magazine rack. We've rarely ever had these in stock and as they really don't exist in great numbers. This is a superb example that has been lovingly looked after over the last 95 odd years. Very sturdy and robust and perfect size for modern day use this rack boasts not only functionality but a genuine kerb side appeal. Beautifully figured walnut veneers with walnut feather banding to the edges. There are two compartments to house your reading material wide enough to house books as well as paperwork / magazines. A useful carry handle offers the choice to move it to different areas of a room with ease. We've taken this piece through our workshops and given it a light polish. There are no flaws to note, it's free from chips of veneer, discolouration and all the usual suspects giving away it's age and use. FREE UK MAINLAND DELIVERY
