Description

A rare and exceptional near pair of Rosewood Stands, the only difference being the small block to the centre of the columns. Dating from the early 19th Century with cluster columns, lovely shaped dolphin feet and beautiful top with superbly shaped inverted corners. It is highly likely that these stands were made by Gillows of Lancaster & London, the design is usually attributed to them. The quality of the craftsmanship along with the use of timbers and the wonderful burnished colour, in particular that of the tops make these tables special.
