Description

A rich and fantastic tribal antique Karaja rug in wonderful original condition, circa 1890 and woven by an expert weaver over 130 years ago. Woven with unbelievable natural dyes, the soft saffron yellow border, glorious rare green dyes in the eight-pointed star design, and natural ivory in the main sun-burst medallion. Deep indigo blues and brick terracotta reds complete the stunning dye palette on this stunning late 19th century rug which is in excellent original condition. Karaja rugs were woven in the North-West of Persia, not far from the weavers of the Caucasus, which is why we see animal motifs and geometric designs from antique Caucasian rugs. Look for the lovely small Reindeer motifs shown four times around the central medallion. Purchase this collectable antique rug online via our secure checkout and we can ship it securely to your home. Or reserve and request a home visit to arrange a convenient day and time to view this antique Karaja rug in-situ. We travel all over the UK showing our inventory of carpets and rugs to private customers and interior designers. You are very welcome to visit our barn showroom in Surrey to view this antique rug up close, boo...
