Description

A fine example of a French caquetoire chair or also known as a conversation chair. The name derives from the French word caqueter, meaning "to chatter" or "gossip". This example dates to the middle of 19th century and is made from solid walnut throughout with four turned legs and all round stretchers. It features shapely armrests with double supports to each arm and a decorative carved back panel. The chair comes in completely original solid condition and is ready for everyday use.
