Description

A Morris and Co Sussex Chair, Later White Painted with Original Rush Seat, 19thC. A late 19th century Morris and Co Sussex Chair, the beech wood frame later painted white and featuring its original rush seat. We believe the white paint to be applied some time mid to 3rd quarter 20th century with traces of an earlier red beneath. A superbly stylish chair, considered a design icon and enduring classic amongst collectors and interior decorators, an example is in the permanent display collection at the V&A. It is quite common for these early models to have historic repairs as the beechwood frames are delicate, this is no exception, see photos for a repair to a rear leg, each leg has been built up apx 2 inches which probably implies it was cut down at some earlier point, again not uncommon. The chair is structurally excellent and stable, with no loose joints or wobbles. Dimensions Height 89cm Width 57cm Depth 47cm Please request more photos and any questions invited.
