Description

This exquisite French bombe-shaped commode, crafted in the 18th-century Chinoiserie style, showcases intricate Coromandel lacquer work, vibrant with depictions of Chinese scenes. Circa 1880, it features two drawers elegantly adorned with Rococo-influenced ormolu mounts, enhancing its opulent aesthetic. The commode boasts a luxurious Breccia marble top, complementing the richness of the lacquered surface. The curved silhouette, characteristic of the bombe design, adds a graceful flair, while the detailed motifs reflect a fascination with Eastern artistry prevalent in European decor of the time.
