Description

A wonderful set of six engraved prints of Italian classical sculpture 18th century by Simon François Ravenet. To include: Farnese Hercules, Capitoline Antinous, Borghese Gladiator, Flora Farnese, Capitoline Muse, Medici Mercury. Simon François Ravenet was a French engraver, born in Paris, where he studied engraving under Jacques Philipps Le Bas before moving to London in 1750. He was one of William Hogarth's assistants and he founded a school line of engraving and is credited with the revival of engraving in England. He died in London and was buried in Old St. Pancras Churchyard on April 6th 1774.
