Description

An exceptional, fine and impressive antique George VI sterling silver cordial/beer/water jug; an addition to our diverse range of antique silverware. This exceptional antique George VI sterling silver jug has a circular bell-shaped form onto a circular knopped pedestal foot. The surface of the body is plain and unembellished, with applied moulded borders to the upper rim and rim of the foot. This solid silver jug is fitted with an impressive hand carved satin wood handle with swept sterling silver sockets. The knob to the pedestal is embellished with impressive embossed geometric decoration. This solid silver water jug is a timeless and elegant piece, making it an ideal purchase whenever you find one of fine craftsmanship and pleasing form. Whether used for serving water at the table, displayed on a sideboard or cherished as part of a silver collection, a sterling silver water jug combines functionality with style, offering a gift that is both useful and symbolic of refinement and tradition. Condition This antique jug is a superior gauge of silver, exceptional quality and in exceptional condition. The embossed decoration is very sharp. Full hallmarks struck to the s...
