Description

Antique Early 19th Century Large Fine Quality Mahogany Extending Twin Pedestal Dining Table This fine-quality late 19th Century mahogany dining table has a beautiful, warm colour and stands on quality brass castors. Its finish has developed a lovely, rich patina through generations of polish and wax. This table combines practicality with decorative charm and would look stunning in the right location. Dimensions: Overall maximum: 200cm L (131cm without the leaf) x 122cm W x 73cm H | Knee hole height: 64cm Condition: In very good antique condition, the finishes are in good order, with minor historic knocks, marks and imperfections buried beneath generations of polish and wax to form a great patina. A solid and strong piece with no loose joints. There are some extinct woodworm holes in the non-mahogany supporting components underneath the tops; these have been treated for good measure. Additional Information Stock No.: 29203 A rare and attractive dining table that combines elegant proportions with enduring character and craftsmanship.
