Description

This Oak Music Filing Cabinet could be used in so many ways in the home to provide useful storage. The lockable panelled door opens to reveal a fully fitted oak interior, with vertical divisions for files or magazines or such like, along with a smooth-running drawer complete with decorative handle. Standing on its original castors for easy movement, this cabinet is finished all round so could be used centrally in a room if required. This piece would also make an impressive pedestal to display a sculptural form on. Being substantially constructed and thus of a very good weight, this piece will remain stable too. The lovely warm hue of the well figured Oak, along with simplistic design means that this cabinet would work well in both a contemporary or more traditional home décor. Supplied with working key.
