Description

A good quality pair of candlesticks dating from the early 20th Century. They are designed in a classical taste with brass sconces and drip trays, a central column and a round stepped foot with an additional bakelite-type material used to create a contrast against the brass. They are made in parts held together on a central threaded brass bolt with a very good quality heavy feel to them. They are in good condition for their age and there are no major damages or losses. There are some faint surface marks and a small dent on the rim of one scone but nothing detrimental. They have been gently cleaned and polished and are ready for use. Approximate Measurements: Height : 9 1/2" / 24cm Base Diameter : 4" / 10cm. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask.
