Description

A refined Chippendale Revival mahogany display cabinet of impressive scale and quality, featuring rich figured veneers, confident carving, and a gently serpentine front. Constructed in solid mahogany with well-chosen flame mahogany veneers, the cabinet reflects the enduring influence of 18th-century English Chippendale design, interpreted in a later revival context. The cabinet is topped by a bold moulded cornice incorporating a continuous carved frieze of rosettes and scrolling foliage, centred by a carved floral cartouche. The façade is arranged with a central pair of astragal-glazed doors, the glazing bars formed as elongated ovals and intersecting arches—an elegant and recognisably Chippendale motif. To either side are paneled cupboard doors, each veneered in striking book-matched flame mahogany and framed by finely carved mouldings. The central glazed section opens to reveal fixed glass shelves set against a light interior back, creating a clean and effective display area for porcelain, glassware, or decorative objects. The flanking cupboards open to reveal fixed shaped wooden shelves, providing substantial concealed storage. The cabinet stands on shaped bracket feet...
