Description

A Qing Dynasty Chinese Blue & White 'Scholars' Porcelain Bowl. A Chinese blue and white porcelain bowl attributed to the Transitional Period (c. 1640–1660), spanning the late Ming (Chongzhen) to early Qing (Shunzhi) dynasties. This deep-form bowl is beautifully decorated in vibrant underglaze cobalt blue with a narrative "Scholar in a Landscape" scene. Artistry & Design: Motif: Features a masterfully painted scholar leaning against a gnarled pine tree, accompanied by attendants in a rocky landscape. Stylistic Markers: Includes the classic 17th-century "V-shaped" grass shorthand and swirling clouds, executed with the confident, painterly brushwork typical of the period. Form: A substantial, deep-sided profile (often associated with Kosometsuke wares produced for the Japanese tea ceremony market). Features a characteristic unglazed "mushover" foot rim with visible radial chatter marks from the potting wheel. Commensurate with age. The bowl retains a wonderful lustre; some minor "fritting". No major cracks or restoration visible. Dimensions: Diameter: 12 cm Height: 7 cm Period:- Late 19th C, circa 1880 - 1910 Provenance: UK, London Collection
