Description

Superb French early 19th-century oak dresser, beautifully crafted and rich with the mellow patina that only two centuries of use can create. The upper section offers open shelving framed by shaped sides and a gently scalloped cornice, ideal for displaying ceramics or glass. Below sit a run of small drawers with brass knobs, each one dovetailed and neatly proportioned, a hallmark of provincial craftsmanship of the period. The base is fitted with a pair of panelled cupboard doors enclosing a single shelf, providing practical enclosed storage. The oak has developed a deep, warm tone, with visible grain and age-softened edges that speak to its long life and authenticity. A characterful and functional example of early 19th-century country furniture, offering both presence and practicality. Internal reference : SAI4062
