Description

Beautiful Quality 19th-Century Wedgwood Jasperware Jug A fine nineteenth-century Wedgwood Jasperware jug, produced in blue basalt, dating to the early to mid-19th century. The jug is elegantly decorated with applied classical putti figures, shown in various animated poses, executed with crisp modelling and excellent definition. The piece is impressed "WEDGWOOD" to the base, confirming its manufacture. The form and quality of the applied decoration are typical of Wedgwood's high standard of production during this period. Condition: Offered in very good condition, with no significant issues noted. Notes: A decorative and collectable example of early Wedgwood Jasperware, appealing to collectors of classical revival ceramics and nineteenth-century English pottery.
