Description

An unusually large railway station clock with an 18" dial (47cm) set in a mahogany surround. . It is an eight day clock, with a cable driven fusee movement and pendulum regulator. It is in very good condition with the dial bearing the insignia "Railway Train Time", G.E.R. (Great Eastern Railway), Liverpool Street . The Great Eastern Railway was re-named "The London North Eastern Railway" (LNER) in the early 1900's. The mechanism has been checked and lightly oiled and is in very good condition, running well and keeping good time. This clock is unusually large and the casing measures 62cm diameter. PLEASE NOTE THAT THE CLOCK FACE IS PERFECT. ANY WHITE MARKS ON THE PHOTOS ARE REFLECTIONS. We can discuss delivery or collection. Payment by bank transfer, PayPal or card via phone.
