Description

A handsome and well-proportioned pair of early 20thc century oak bedside cabinets, each topped with a white marble slab displaying soft natural grey veining. Each cabinet is arranged with a single frieze drawer above an open shelf, raised on turned oak supports, with a panelled cupboard below providing useful enclosed storage. Crafted in solid oak throughout, the cabinets display a warm, attractive tone and retain charming period detailing, including turned legs and original-style brass knobs. The marble tops are in very good condition and add both elegance and practicality. The pair are structurally sound and presented in very good antique condition, with light cosmetic wear commensurate with age. Equally suited for use as bedside tables, lamp tables or occasional cabinets, these pieces sit comfortably in both traditional and contemporary interiors.
