Description

This stunning pair of 19th-century Burmese Temple chairs in hardwood, epitomize exquisite craftsmanship, showcasing intricate hand-carved details that celebrate nature and artistry. Each chair features elaborately depicted animals, including Camels, Elephants, Lions, birds and snakes, seamlessly integrated into a tapestry of temple scenes, motifs and foliage. The high backs are adorned with elaborate drapery and regal figures, creating a striking visual narrative that reflects the era's artistic flourish. The legs are robustly carved to resemble powerful creatures, adding a sense of strength and dynamism. The rich patina of the hardwood enhances the depth of the carvings, inviting viewers to appreciate the artistry from every angle. These chairs not only serve as functional seating but also as captivating conversation pieces, embodying the spirit of craftsmanship and design from a bygone era. Perfect for collectors or as a statement in any space, they bring a touch of history and elegance to modern interiors. Batch 85 N/H
