Description

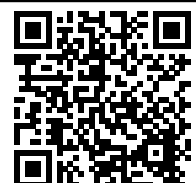

Victorian Burr Walnut Coffee Table, c.1860 This impressive Victorian Burr Walnut Coffee Table is a striking example of mid-19th-century English furniture, celebrated for its rich colour, exceptional figuring, and bold proportions. The generously sized oval burr walnut top displays outstanding natural grain patterns, with warm golden and honey tones that shimmer beautifully under the light. The top is supported by a robust and elegant twin-end pedestal base, with sweeping curved supports terminating in carved feet fitted with original-style castors. The scale and quality of the burr walnut veneers reflect the Victorian taste for statement furniture, making this table both highly decorative and eminently practical. Ideal as a centre table or coffee table, this piece would sit comfortably in a traditional drawing room, library, or refined contemporary interior where character and craftsmanship are valued.

Key Features • Authentic Victorian period coffee / centre table, circa 1860 • Superb burr walnut veneered top with exceptional figuring • Large oval surface with a rich, warm patina • Elegant twin pedestal base with curved supports •...
