Description

A fine Victorian rosewood library table of generous proportion. The rectangular top sits above a deep apron with turned pendant drops, raised on decoratively shaped pierced trestle ends with applied bosses and a central turned stretcher. Designed for writing and reading, it works beautifully as a centre table in a library or study, or as a substantial console in a large hall or living space. Very good antique condition with minor surface wear consistent with age. There is an old, well-consolidated repair to the underside of the stretcher. Structurally sound, clean and ready to place in the home. English, circa 1870. H: 74.5 W: 122 D: 61 cm Height to underside of table: 60 cm
