Description

A highly decorative pair of French late 19th century (circa 1900) spelter campana urns on stepped plinth bases. The urns consist of a reeded edge to the top leading down to fluted decoration with ornate handles with male faces to either side all supported on a fluted stem with foliate collar. The urns are supported on decorative stepped plinth bases, one depicting pan pipes within a roundel surrounded by stylised fleur de lys and the other depicting a lyre and artist palette surrounded by a laurel wreath. This pair of urns are in good condition for age, are of stable construction and can go straight into a home – great items for a mantelpiece etc. Size: Height: 13.5" / 34.25cm Width: 6.5" / 16.5cm Depth: 6.5" / 16.5cm
