Description

An elegant early 20th-century mahogany compactum. The gently bowed front is fitted with three panelled doors, each veneered in richly figured, book-matched flame mahogany, framed by moulded surrounds and enriched with carved foliate spandrels to the corners. The whole is surmounted by a pierced and scroll-carved crested rail, while shaped bracket feet provide a stable and well-balanced base. Internally, the compactum is well configured for everyday use. One section offers full-height hanging space with a brass rail for coats and dresses, while the opposing compartment is fitted with adjustable shelving above a series of pull-out trays and two drawers with recessed brass handles. The reverse of the central door retains a full-length mirror, discreetly concealed when closed and adding a useful dressing feature without compromising the exterior appearance. Retaining its original brass fittings and hinges, with doors that align and close well, this compactum displays good-quality craftsmanship throughout. Its relatively modest footprint makes it particularly suitable for smaller bedrooms or apartments, while still offering excellent storage capacity. Dimensions Height 83.5 l...
