Description

A lovely oak desk chair dating from the early 20th Century. It is a good comfortable chair and very well made with an upholstered leather seat with a studded border. It stands on nicely shaped legs joined by a double stretcher. It is approximately 33" (84cm) high, the arms are 25" (64cm) wide and the chair is 18" (46cm) deep. The seat is approximately 18" (46cm) high. It is in very good condition for its age and it has a lovely patina. There are signs of age and use and it is not without a few small marks here and there but nothing detrimental or untoward. There have been a few old repairs but it is strong and sturdy and the leather seat is in good order. It has been gently cleaned and polished and is ready for use. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Nationwide delivery available through our network of reliable couriers.
