Description

Antique Georgian Oak Tilt Top Table. This exceptional Georgian tilt-top table, dated to around C1830 is a superb example of early 19th-century craftsmanship. Constructed from solid Oak, it presents a rich, deep patina that has developed over nearly two centuries, showcasing the natural beauty and grain of the wood. The table's surface boasts its original waxed polished finish, which has been lovingly built up over many years, creating a wonderful, lustrous gloss that beautifully highlights the quarter sawn Oak and the character of the timber. The table's design is both elegant and functional, featuring a circular plank top that is remarkably flat and true, without bowing or twisting or open joints. As a testament to its lifelong preservation, the table has some historic Bowties to the underneath of the top which is the traditional way in which to repair open joints in the 4 plank top. The top is supported by a beautifully turned central pedestal, which sits upon a tri-form base of three graceful sweeping swan neck legs which are without repairs are strengthened by its original wrought iron brace to the underside. A key feature of this table is its original and fully fun...
