Description

Large English 18th Century farmhouse Table in oak and elm, full of character and presence. The table stands on sturdy square oak legs joined by traditional end stretchers, giving it excellent strength and stability. The base features attractive shaped brackets to the apron, adding a refined decorative touch. The 1.5" thick elm top is formed from quarter planks and shows beautiful grain and movement. Carefully restored to retain its original patination, this is a superb, piece that works equally well as a statement dining table or centre piece for large kitchen space.
