Description

An exceptional, fine and impressive antique Victorian English sterling silver two handled tray; an addition to our silver serving tray collection. This exceptional antique Victorian sterling silver tray has an oval form. The surface of the tray is encircled with fine bright cut engraved intertwining decoration, accented with scrolling foliate and floral designs. The decoration to the surface of the tray incorporates a shaped vacant cartouche to the centre. The raised rounded border is encompassed with fine and impressive bright cut engraved decoration to the plateau, reflecting the decoration to the surface. This exceptional tray is fitted with two oval handles accented with swept terminals, all embellished with simplified foliate festoon and floral designs. The tray is supported by four bun style feet and the underside bears a 'lozenge mark' which certifies the patent of this piece on 13th March 1874 with the UK Patent Office. Such versatile examples in this desirable medial size, suitable as a drinks tray and three-piece service tea tray, are highly desirable. This decorative sterling silver serving tray with handles is a refined and versatile piece, ideal for p...
