Description

Pair of Edwardian Leather Wing Chairs • _____ • A Distinguished Pair of Edwardian Leather Wing Chairs • An exceptional and imposing pair of Edwardian leather wing back chairs, dating from the early 20th century, combining commanding scale with superb comfort and craftsmanship. • Upholstered in beautifully matured, hand-finished leather of a rich cognac tone, the chairs display an enviable depth of colour and natural patination acquired over time. The tall, elegantly shaped wing backs and generously scrolled arms are finished with fine brass studwork, giving definition and a tailored silhouette. • The seats retain luxurious feather-filled cushions, offering remarkable comfort and softness without compromising support. Beneath, the exposed solid walnut underframes reveal the quality of construction: turned legs, carved front stretchers, shaped aprons and pad feet — all contributing to their refined architectural presence. • With their impressive height and balanced proportions, these chairs make a striking statement flanking a fireplace, anchoring a library scheme, or adding gravitas to a study or drawing room. Equally suited to a classic ...
