SoldItem Reference: SA1197335*Date of manufacture: Georgian

Description

A lightly gilded antique Georgian ring with lovely shimmery diamonds which have a real impact on the finger. SIZE: S (UK), 9 (US). WEIGHT: 3.2g. MATERIALS: X-ray testing reveals the ring to be 47% silver, 21% gold and 31% copper - likely a gilded silver alloy. CONDITION: The ring is in good solid condition though with some enamel loss on the shoulders. The diamonds are really more slivers than formal rose cuts, the centre one in particular is an irregular shape and it's hard to tell if that was how it started or if it has been chipped in situ, although the prong goes all the way to the stone so likely it's always been like that. Please see photos. HALLMARKS/STAMPS: None. ERA: Georgian (c.1714-1837).
