Description

Mid C19th mahogany 'country-house' luggage stand of deep proportions with a raised and raked rear upstand support. The broad rectangular platform with slatted lateral luggage supports and raised on elegantly turned forelegs. The rear raked upstand with gently chamfered edges and subtle Gothic design influenced uprights, having two chamfered edge lateral bars. The rear square-section supports with a raked angle providing good stability and strength. In excellent original condition with no damage or repairs, having a rich colour and patina to the original polished surface. A practical piece of classic country-house mahogany furniture of good scale and proportions, being of the rarer form of luggage rack having a raised rear support.
