Description

A Large 19thC Terracotta Dairy Bowl with Glazed Interior 53cm diameter with drainage holes. An unusually large 19thC terracotta dairy bowl with glazed interior, 53cm diameter with drainage holes. A superbly stylish, substantial dairy bowl or planter, handmade, earthenware or terracotta bowl, mixing/washing bowl or planter of excellent proportion and character, most probably English country house dairy origins and later used as a planter. An attractive antique glazed kitchenware or garden bowl-planter for decoration, fruit, salads, miscellaneous etc, circa late mid 19th century. An elegant large planter or tableware item for practical kitchen or garden use or outside dining etc., with a striking weathered surface with a glaze interior, with considerable decorative appeal for indoors and outdoor use. With drainage holes to base. Dimensions Diameter 53cm Height 30cm Please request more photos and any questions invited. Free collection from Lewes, East Sussex. U.K. delivery available.
