Description

1912. Fabergé, Cold-Painted Bronze Figures of Kamer-Kazak Bodyguards (Russian). Very rare, highly collectable and expertly crafted pair of Fabergé, signed cast and cold-painted bronze statues of A.A. Kudinov and N.N. Pustynnikov, personal Kamer-Kazak bodyguards of Dowager Empress Maria Feodorovna and Empress Alexandra Feodorovna. Kamer-Kazak's are presented in dress parade uniforms with badges and medals, the coats trimmed with Imperial Eagles, and cockaded fleece hats with gold braid. Between 1908 and 1916, the workshops of the Russian court jeweler Carl Fabergé created approximately 50 hardstone figures representing the Russian people, including peasants, merchants, noblemen, and soldiers. Made from gems and precious metals, they are as rare as the well-known Imperial Easter eggs. The last Romanov emperor, Nicholas II, owned 21 of these portrait figures, two of which depict the Cossack bodyguards of the Romanov empresses. In 1912, though there is little documented evidence of this, it is known that approximately fifty exquisite cold-painted bronze figurine pairs were cast, in the manner of the hardstone figures, by the workshop of Henrik Wigström, Chief Workmaster fo...
