Description

Type of artwork: Original Antique Oil Painting Surface: Oil on Panel Artist and signature: Signed by Francesco Gioli (Italian 1846-1922) Francesco Gioli (1846-1922) was an Italian painter born in San Frediano a Settimo (Pisa) in 1846 and died in Florence in 1922. He trained initially at the Accademia di Pisa, then at the Accademia di Belle Arti in Florence under respected teachers like Antonio Ciseri and Enrico Pollastrini. In the early part of his career he painted history and genre scenes, then gradually incorporated landscape and naturalist influences, especially after exposure to: The Macchiaioli movement (a pre-Impressionist Italian group) and French naturalism during time in Paris and the light and countryside around Pisa and Tuscany. Gioli also enjoyed artistic success, including participation in international exhibitions and a solo room at the 1914 Venice Biennale. He was later appointed professor at major Italian academies, cementing his reputation within Italian art circles. Approximate age of artwork: Circa late 19th Century Depiction or Location: A portrait of a Sailor and his Girl Is the artwork Framed or Mounted: Framed as shown. Important notice reg...
