Description

Regency Carved Giltwood Pier Mirror Eglomisé Panel Trumeau. Regency carved giltwood pier mirror featuring an eglomisé panel. The frame is made of carved giltwood and gesso, adorned with a pediment and four pendant balls at the top. Below the pediment, there are columns on either side of the mirror plate, with rectangular blocks positioned at both the top and bottom. The reverse side of the glass is hand-painted, depicting a scene of a farmhouse on a rise, accompanied by a horse in front of a lake and two figures in a boat. The mirror shows mild oxidation and peeling off specks, and the back has separate wooden backing boards attached to the upper and lower portions. Additionally, remnants of newspaper are visible through the flaking of the reverse glass painting.
