Description

A Joined Oak Carved Child's Highchair on Stand, initialled R.D. and dated 1688. An early child's chair, featuring a scrolled top rail set above a tracery carved back panel and flanked by carved down-swept arms. The later boarded seat is raised above a carved seat rail. The chair is secured, by means of a charming wooden screw, to a later Victorian stand with spiral-turned legs, the proportions of which sit sympathetically with the original structure. The stand is designed to function independently as a table once the chair is removed and incorporates an earlier carved panel at its centre. Overall, a particularly delightful and uncommon piece. Height 105cm x Width 41cm x Depth 41cm. Chair: Height 71cm x Width 41cm x Depth 39cm. Table: Height 34cm x Width 41cm x Depth 41cm.
