Description

This is a rare 19th century box frame of extremely fine quality in the most excellent condition dating from the mid Victorian era circa 1860. These box frames were expensive fine quality pieces so are fairly scarce. The rosewood outer case is velvet lined with a curved cushion interior that holds the gilded gesso frame. The ornate detail of the gilded gesso is extremely fine and crisp having been protected behind glass for over 150 years. This is one of 12 that we currently have listed from a good collection of Victorian frames all in perfect condition. They include images on porcelain and also images highlighted in paint etc. The photographs carry the signature for the renowned G T Jones Photographers, Surbiton, who had the patronage of HRH The Queen as well as other royals (see last photo). The sheer quality of all of the frames really does reflect this connection. We have a near exact match to this listed if you are looking for a pair. Please see our other items. This measures 30 x 35 cm by overall. The rebate of the gilt frame inside is 20 x 16 UK insured delivery is £15
