Description

Here are a fantastic pair of late 19th / Early 20th Century mirrored brass girandoles (or candle sconces) in the Chinoiserie style. Each sconce combines a diamond shaped brass body with a bevelled circular mirror - to the front are two removable candle holders which can be adjusted within their sockets to the position you prefer. Whilst the sconces are undoubtedly European in origin (indeed probably English), the brass is decorated with Chinese scenes and imagery - birds flutter overhead as ships sail lazily on a river as flowers and trees bloom in abundance. When lit, the brass will gleam and the candle light will be enhanced, reflected in the mirrors beautifully. The sconces measure 33cm by 33cm, with a 2.5cm hanging loop to the top and are in good order. They have the gentle surface wear to be expected of items of this age, with some age related marks to the fabric on the reverse (obviously unseen when mounted on the wall), the mirrors showing foxing which personally I think enhances their beauty and character - please take a look at the photographs to see if this is for you, and if you have any questions at all or would like further photographs, please don't ...
