Description

Victorian Burr Walnut Oval Tilt-Top Breakfast Table – Circa 1870 A handsome Victorian burr walnut inlaid oval tilt-top breakfast table, dating to around 1870 and presented in good antique condition. The oval top displays beautifully figured burr walnut veneers, arranged to create an attractive symmetrical pattern, with rich colour and depth typical of quality Victorian walnut furniture. The table retains its tilt-top mechanism, allowing the top to be raised upright when not in use, a practical feature often found on Victorian breakfast tables. The top is finished with a finely moulded edge, complementing the elegant proportions. It stands on a well-turned central pedestal with decorative carving, supported by four shaped legs with scroll detail and ceramic castors, providing both stability and ease of movement. A stylish and practical Victorian breakfast or centre table, ideal for both traditional and contemporary interiors. A classic piece of 19th century walnut furniture with excellent decorative appeal.
