Description

A refined Victorian two-tier dumb waiter table / book shelf in richly figured amboyna with elegant ebonised detailing. The rectangular top is beautifully veneered in amboyna wood, displaying warm golden tones and dramatic swirling grain patterns. A fine ebonised border frames the top, providing crisp contrast and enhancing the overall form. Beneath sits a second tier shelf, also veneered in matching walnut, making the piece both decorative and practical for books or display. Circa 1880. Offered in great shape. Will ship to anywhere in the world - including the US - please get in touch for a shipping quote. The supports are particularly elegant, with slender turned and fluted legs in a contrasting dark ebonised finish. These are united by a turned stretcher for added strength and visual balance. The table stands on classic Regency sabre feet with small brass castors, allowing it to be moved easily. Well proportioned and versatile, this would work beautifully as a lamp table, side table, or small centre table, combining Victorian elegance with practical two-tier functionality. Dimensions are in inches (CM): Width x Depth x Height 30" (76 cm) x 18" (46 cm) x 31" (79 cm).
